Restore the windows VM to clean state. Browse all of the following websites in any order you like:

1. <https://theuselessweb.org/>

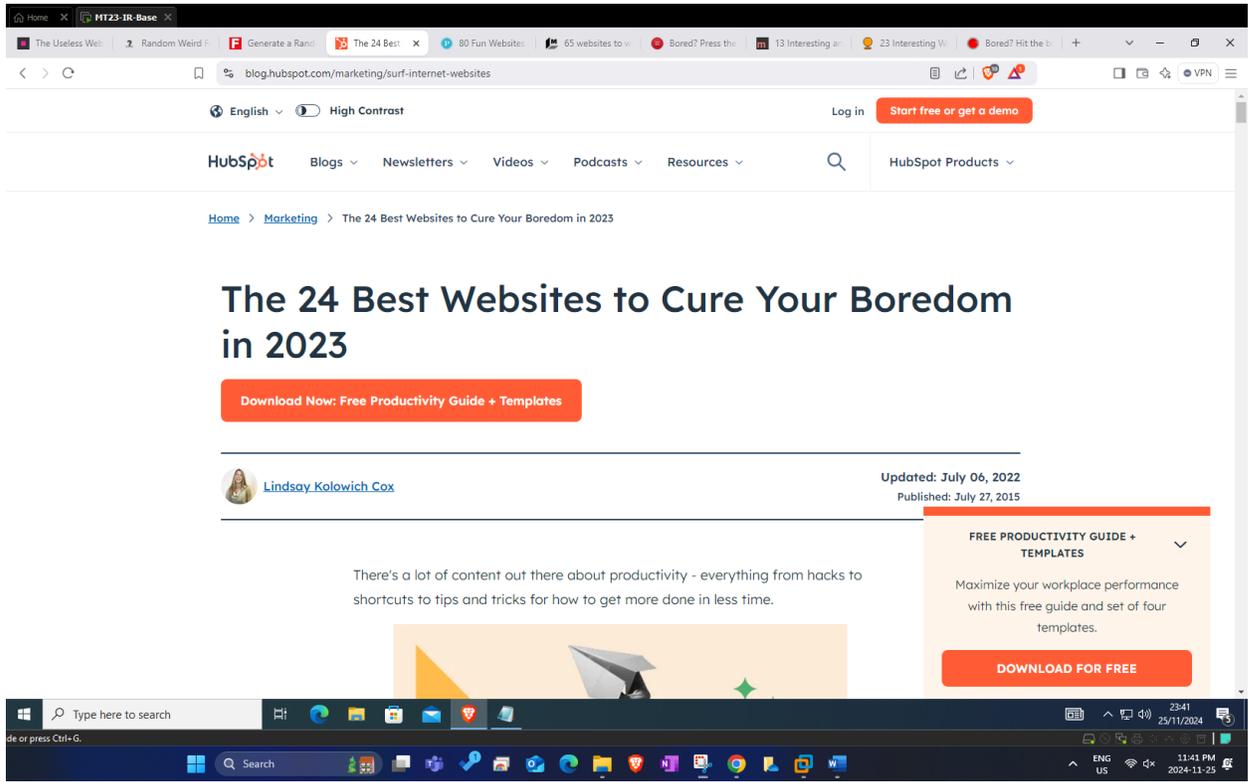

2. <https://www.random-ize.com/random-website/>

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the URL `random-ize.com/random-website/`. The page title is "Weird, Odd, Funny and Interesting Websites". A prominent blue button labeled "Next Website" is centered on the page. Below the button, there is a paragraph of text: "Bored with the web? Think you've seen it all? Surf the web a new way with this random website generator. Bounce around thousands of crazy, pointless, funny, interactive, informative and interesting websites made by the most odd people online. And that says something." Below this text are three small thumbnail images of random websites. At the bottom of the page, there is a navigation menu with sections: "FACEBOOK", "LATEST TWEET", "OUR COMPANY", and "RANDOM QUOTE". The "RANDOM QUOTE" section displays a quote by Oscar Wilde: "No man is rich enough to buy back his past."

3. <https://www.fakenamegenerator.com/>

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the URL `fakenamegenerator.com`. The page title is "FAKE NAME GENERATOR™". A navigation bar contains links for "Name Generator", "Free Tools", "Order in Bulk", "Smiley Generator", and "FAQ". The main content area is titled "Your Randomly Generated Identity" and features a form with the following fields: "Gender" (Random), "Name set" (American), and "Country" (United States). A "Generate" button is visible. To the right of the form, a note states: "These name sets apply to this country: American, Hispanic". Below the form, a randomly generated identity is displayed for "Kathleen D. Miller". The identity details include: address (4174 Fittro Street, Gurdon, AR 71743), mother's maiden name (Stark), SSN (432-78-XXXX), geo coordinates (33.877566, -93.049699), phone number (870-353-7421), and birthday (October 1, 1975). A "Sign in" button is also present.

4. <https://blog.hubspot.com/marketing/surf-internet-websites>

The screenshot shows a web browser displaying a HubSpot blog article. The URL in the address bar is blog.hubspot.com/marketing/surf-internet-websites. The page features the HubSpot logo and navigation menu at the top. The main heading is "The 24 Best Websites to Cure Your Boredom in 2023". Below the heading is a red button that says "Download Now: Free Productivity Guide + Templates". The author is identified as Lindsay Kolowich Cox, and the article was updated on July 06, 2022, and published on July 27, 2015. A sidebar on the right offers a "FREE PRODUCTIVITY GUIDE + TEMPLATES" download for free. The Windows taskbar is visible at the bottom of the browser window.

Then, goto <https://phishtank.org/> and visit the websites reported as phishing. If you see any that needs a login or entering personal details, use the data from #3. Minimum 15 working and unique phishing urls need to be accessed.

The screenshot shows the PhishTank website interface. The main heading is "Join the fight against phishing" with instructions to submit, track, verify, and develop. A search bar is present with the text "Found a phishing site? Get started now -- see if it's in the Tank:". Below this is a table of "Recent Submissions" with columns for ID, URL, and Submitted by. The table lists 15 entries, all submitted by "dms".

1. How many times was smartscreen invoked including timestamps for each?

2. Hostname and OEM vendor of the machine

3. IP address of the machine

192.168.184.134

- img_Assignment 3.E01/Windows/System32/config/SYSTEM
  - Navigate to Services > Tcpip > Parameters > Interfaces.

This is the correct place to find network interface details, including IP addresses. Under the Interfaces section, look for entries like DhcpIPAddress or IPAddress, which will show the machine's assigned IP address.

4. What was the auto suggest when you googled, was it completely off the target?

When searching on Google, the auto suggested results often include a mix of relevant and unrelated suggestions. Some of the suggestions match the search terms, while others seem completely off-topic. This could be due to the system's stored data or previous user activity. For example, the results might display links to personal profiles on platforms like LinkedIn, Instagram, or Facebook, along with random topics or articles that don't really align with what you were looking for.

The screenshot shows the Autopsy 4.21.0 interface. The main window displays a 'Web Search' results table with the following columns: Source Name, S, C, O, Domain, Text, Program Name, Date Accessed, and Data Source. The table contains several entries, all from 'google.com' and accessed via 'Brave'.

Source Name	S	C	O	Domain	Text	Program Name	Date Accessed	Data Source

Below the table, the 'Strings' section shows extracted text from the search results, including various URLs and snippets of text related to the search terms.

Organization: Microsoft.

This information helps identify the individual associated with these files and possibly their role or connection to the machine.

6. What applications were installed in 2023 and their paths?

The screenshot displays the Autopsy 4.21.0 interface with the 'Listing' pane open, showing a table of installed programs. The table columns are Source Name, S, C, O, Program Name, Date/Time, and Data Source. The selected entry is Microsoft Visual C++ 2019 X86 Minimum Runtime - 1, installed on 2023-09-10 06:55:20 EDT.

8. Explain what happened using the analysis in Autopsy.

Analysis shows that VMware virtual machines are being used to browse a variety of websites. Including random and intellectual sites. Classmates' names on Google and phishing URLs from PhishTank specifically SmartScreen to flag suspicious or potentially malicious websites when interacting with phishing URLs. Multiple calls. Done. The machine's hostname was listed as GBC-SEP-24-MOHAMAD and OEM vendors confirm that it is a virtual environment. The device's IP address can be found in the System section under the Network Configuration section. Specifically within TCP/IP parameters Which is 192.168.184.134.

The auto-suggestion feature for searching classmates' names on Google provides both relevant and unrelated results. Some suggestions include expected profiles from LinkedIn, Instagram, etc. forums, while others off target This may be influenced by cached browsing history or previous activity on the system. Additionally, the author of the analyzed Word document metadata in the system recommends Kevin L. Brown, who partially connected to Microsoft on the virtual machine. Provides insight into the origin of the file.
